A heritage of innovation

Our heritage of superior design and craftsmanship dates back to 1906. The original company, Kalamazoo Sheet Metal, was an innovative, family-run business known for inventing a range of products including “The Mighty Kalamazoo,” the first successful slot machine, the first folding daybed, and one of the first adjustable wrenches. The company also was a highly successful fabricator of custom equipment for the dairy and pharmaceutical industries. These two businesses share the most stringent sanitary standards for equipment, which dictate the finest welding and finishing in any industry. A welder or finisher who fabricates “dairy standard” equipment is viewed in the sheet metal trade as a highly skilled and valued artisan.

Leveraging the talents of these expert craftsmen, Kalamazoo Outdoor Gourmet has provided the most innovative and highest performing outdoor grilling and entertainment products available for decades. Kalamazoo’s reputation was first established with superior, hand-crafted stainless steel grills. Most notably, in the 1990s, Kalamazoo launched the first hybrid grill which combined the flavor and cooking experience of a real charcoal or wood fire with the always-at-the-ready convenience of a gas grill. This innovative design remains exclusive to the company even today and is coveted by avid grillers and leading chefs across the country. Chef Rick Bayless is one of these notable Kalamazoo Outdoor Gourmet aficionados, effusing, “The feature that really puts Kalamazoo over the top is that you can easily switch between gas and charcoal or wood. It’s as simple as opening the drawer!”
